The President Talking Again.

By Associated Press.]
PEORIA (Ill.), Oct. 8.—President Harrison arose early this morning, but he was not early enough to escape the thousand of eager people who assembled around the hotel in that city, struggling for a sight of their distinguished visitor. At 7 o'clock the band serenaded the President, and a few minutes later the Mayor and City Council, accompanied by the G. A. R. posts and a company of Illinois National Guards, escorted the party to the train.

The march was a triumphal one and all Peoria turned out to do homage to the Chief Executive. At the depot over five thousand people were assembled, and the President, being introduced by Mayor Starke, spoke as follows:

"My fellow citizens, it is not possible that I should introduce this morning any serious theme. I have greatly enjoyed this trip through my old State and yours—sisters in loyalty and sacrifice for the Union, sisters also in prosperity and honor [applause]. I find myself simply saying 'thank you,' but with an increasing sense of kindness of the people. If anything could add to the solemn sense of responsibility which my official oath places upon me, it would be these evidences of friendliness and confidence. The great mass of the people of this country are loyal, loving, dutiful citizens, ready to support every faithful officer in the discharge of his duty and to applaud every honest effort for their good. It is a source of great strength to know this, and this morning not less from this bright sunshine and this crisp Illinois air than from these kindly faces I draw inspiration to do what I can to promote the good of the people of the United States [applause]. I go to-day to meet with some comrades of your State who stood with me in the army of the great Union for the defense of the flag [applause]."

At the conclusion of the address Elsie Leslie Lyde, the child actress of "Little Lord Fauntleroy" fame, presented the President with a beautiful bouquet on behalf of the G. A. R. posts and citizens of Peoria. The President expressed his thanks by kissing the little lady, and amid the cheers of the crowd, the train pulled out for Galesburg. At Peoria the Presidential party was met by a delegation from Galesburg on a special train.

Near Galesburg the President, after according a reception to the old veterans on board, went forward with Secretary Tracy and greeted engineer Hilton, who was a member of the President's brigade. On the invitation of the engineer the President and Secretary Tracy mounted the engine and rode in the cab with the engineer for a few miles. To the President the engineer gracefully yielded the responsibility of pulling the whistle for the stations and crossings, and the fireman considerably turned over the bell rope to Secretary Tracy.

The event of the day was the reunion at Galesburg of the 2nd brigade, 6th

THE PLATFORM.
The Republican party of Washoe county, in convention assembled, renews its pledges of faith and allegiance to the doctrines and principles of the Republican party, which in the future, as in the past, will continue to vouchsafe to the people the broadest and most enlightened freedom, consistent with safety to the State, and the perpetuity of our form of government.

We most heartily endorse the platform adopted by the Republican Convention at Virginia City, as a manly and conservative declaration of principles suited to the necessities and demands of the people of this State, and strangely in contrast with the billingsgate and rascality of the Democratic platform, which was presented by the Grand Jury of that party, in their recent State Convention.

We recognize in our delegation in Congress, Hon. J. P. Jones, Wm. M. Stewart and H. F. Bartine, able and efficient public servants, who have been untiring in their efforts to promote the interests of the people of Nevada, as well as those of the whole country; and we desire to accord to them that full meed of praise which their valuable services so pre-eminently merit.

We commend the wise and conservative administration of President Harrison, who has redeemed the pledges so solemnly made to the people in the National Republican platform, and has fully justified the confidence reposed in him by the suffrages of the American people.

We endorse the action of the Republicans in Congress in increasing the tariff on wool, so as to encourage the production of staples hitherto imported, which Grover Cleveland, in a special message, recommended to be placed on the free list; and in the passage over Democratic votes of a silver bill which has increased the value of the product of our mines more than ten millions of dollars, added seventy-five millions to the value of our wheat crop, one hundred millions to the oat crop, and two hundred millions to the corn crop of the United States.

It is with the most profound sorrow that the Republicans of Nevada received the news of the death of Hon. C. C. Stevenson, late Governor of this State. We deplore his loss in the councils of the party, where he was ever ready by word and deed to advance his interests in every honorable way; and the people of this State have been deprived of the services of an honest and conscientious public servant, his family of a kind, indulgent and affectionate husband and father; and to the bereaved members of his household we extend our most profound and sincere sympathy.

It is the sense of this Convention that the best way to promote and foster the upbuilding of Nevada is to provide and maintain good government, with a system of low taxation, and to this end we favor the most rigid economy in every department of the public service, and the enactment of such legislation as will secure to the people of the State the lightest possible burdens, without material injury to the administration of affairs.

We demand that the membership of the Legislature be reduced to forty, their term to six years, and that their mileage to actual and necessary traveling expenses in going to and from the State Capital.

We are in favor of the donation of the public lands to the State to be used for a basis for water storage and reclamation; at the same time we call attention to the fact that a large portion of our previous grant is exhausted, and can be used for these purposes without waiting for additional appropriations.

We are in favor of the use under wise plans and safe management of the large fund lying idle in the State Treasury in a way to quicken it into life and start it through our great valleys, reclaiming one after another, making homes for new citizens and adding to our taxable property; and we recommend that our Senators and Assemblymen give this matter their careful attention, adopting the system which promises the greatest good to the State, giving it their solid support.

We are in favor of the acquisition, either by the State or county, of the control of the water storage sites of the Truckee basin, so that they may in time be made useful to the public, without the possibility of their falling into the hands of private monopolies. We are opposed to bonding Washoe

FRENCH TARIFF LAWS

The McKinley Law Worrying Them.

A Quick Trip Across the Atlantic Ocean.

Senator Hoar on Mormonism.

By Associated Press.]
BOSTON, Oct. 8.—Senator Hoar yesterday expressed gratification at the action of the Mormon Church in abolishing polygamy as an article of faith. "But," he said, "I am not surprised that the leaders now see the laws of Congress pressing them, and that the Gentile element in Utah is growing too rapidly to permit of a continuance of their odious practices of twenty years ago. Some one, I think it was Oliver Morton, while traveling in Utah, told Brigham Young it would be the best thing for him to have another revelation and then abolish polygamy. They have stood out as long as they could."

Senator Hoar regards the action of the conference as confirmatory of his settled belief that all sectionalism will disappear as the nation becomes homogeneous.

"When you can talk with people by telephone," he said, "their prejudices and peculiar local influences will disappear. I think that is the way the Southern question is to be settled. The railway, the telegraph and the telephone are bringing people of all sections into close communication, which are to sweep away provincialism and prejudice, and the nation will become one in sentiment on all great social and economic questions, but," he said, "we will not admit Utah to Statehood until we are pretty sure they mean what they say."

The Ticket.

The Republicans have met in convention and selected a good ticket to be voted for in November. The nominee for State Senator, M. D. Foley, is a man of extended legislative experience, and will, if elected, undoubtedly use his influence for the best interest of the county.

The nominees for Assemblymen are all good men. Wm. Thompson is a man of large experience, both in legislative halls and the business world, and is eminently qualified for the important trust. R. H. Kinney is also well fitted for the duties, for he is honest, and that is a very essential qualification. R. G. Leeper is a young man full of promise, and has his life before him, and will guard his reputation zealously.

William Caulfield, the nominee for Sheriff, needs no word of praise, but we will say that he is a man of unquestioned integrity, and has the ability to conduct the office as it should be conducted. He should be elected by a majority of three hundred, and he undoubtedly will be, for his word is his bond, and the taxpayers will have the satisfaction of knowing that everything in his department will be well and faithfully performed.

In H. W. Higgins, the party's nominee for Clerk, the Convention selected wisely, for a more competent man cannot be found in the county.

In A. G. Fletcher, the candidate for Assessor, the party has a man that is fully acquainted with values, strictly honest and in every way qualified for the position. He is an old soldier, too, and was on the right side of the conflict. He is worthy the support of every voter in the county, and if he is defeated it will be because he is traded off.

W. H. Young, the nominee for Recorder, has occupied public positions too long to require any introduction to the people, and the same may be said of D. B. Boyd, the candidate for Treasurer.

For Long-term Commissioner D. W. O'Connor is a strong man and deserving the party's support, and so is William Pearson, the short-term man.

Frank H. Norcross is a native son of Nevada, bright and studious, and will make a good County Surveyor.

J. V. Peers knows how to sit on a corpse as well as the next man, for he has had two years' experience and has always done his duty.

In the GAZETTE's opposition to M. D. Foley for State Senator from this county our conscience is clear and we have no apology to offer to any one. We believed, and believe still, that we were voicing the sentiment of a large majority of the taxpayers, and that the people are on our side. At all events, we fought for a principle that we think every American citizen has an unquestioned right to fight for. We are still of the opinion that the Convention made a mistake in placing Mr. Foley at the head of the ticket, but will abide by its decision.

The Board of Commissioners for the Care of the Insane have employed Tremore Coffin to further persecute and prosecute the Reno Reduction Works. The money to carry on this senseless suit comes out of the appropriation for the care of the insane, and we think the money could be put to a much better use than crushing out so important an industry.

Now that the railroad company have given ample proof that they are "out of politics," perhaps the Board of Equalization can explain why the night before the convention they reconsidered their vote taken on Saturday last and reduced the assessment on that company's property.

Now that the Board of Equalization have reduced the taxes on the railroad one thousand a mile, why can't we all come in and ask for a reduction. What is sauce for the goose should be sauce for the gander.

BEFORE the railroad went "out of politics" the people knew what to expect, but now they are all at sea.

THE BUSY MOSQUITO.

A Whole Book Has at Last Been Dedicated to the Pest.

Besides Being an Aggravation to the Best-Natured Person the Insect Carries Disease Germs from One of Its Victims to the Other.

Messrs. Appleton are printing a book on the mosquito, says the Boston Globe. A great many people, already aware from personal experience that mosquitoes are undesirable associates, will be surprised to find out that a really serious enemy of the human race the insect is and always has been—the insect is found as a fossil among the geological remains of former ages, apparently never, at any period, having been extinct, and always having been industrious.

There seems to be no doubt that the mosquito is capable of communicating a poison. The fact that it is allowed to remain long enough to draw out a sufficient quantity of blood but little irritation remains seems to prove this, but it is also said that it is capable of inoculating mankind with malarial disease.

Dr. Finlay, of Havana, asserts that it is his belief that the mosquito is an agent in spreading yellow fever. He says that the insect, after puncturing the skin of the yellow fever patient, retains some of the germs of the disease, and that he communicates these to the next person he visits. So sure is he that the mosquito is the active if not the only agent for the dissemination of yellow fever, that he holds that the disease can not exist where the mosquito does not flourish.

The book will serve one good purpose at least. It will do justice to that much-maligned insect variously known in different parts of the country as the dragon-fly, mosquito-hawk, devil's darning needle and snake-feeder. It will place him in a better light, for, instead of deserving the obloquy which has universally been cast upon him, he appears to be entitled to much consideration, as the insect relied upon to destroy the mosquito.

Captain C. N. B. Macaulay of the United States army has given his experience. In the summer of 1885 he was on duty at Fort Abraham Lincoln in Dakota. To show the thickness of the mosquitoes at that time in the neighborhood of Fort Abraham Lincoln he says: "On the target range, during the end of June and about three weeks in July, I could not stay unless I had on heavy boots—such as are used on there for riding—thick trousers, leather gauntlets and a thick 'cache nez' tucked under my helmet and collar of my tunic."

The air was filled with clouds of these tormentors, yet at the appearance of two or three dragon flies the mosquitoes would suddenly disappear. He was serious to see how they caught their food. He noticed that they flew in an irregular kind of skirmish line, moved slowly, and every now and then made "dabs" at apparently nothing. Each dab of the insect meant a mosquito.

Another authority, who seems to hold that it would be questionable policy to attempt to destroy the mosquito, it being in his opinion a scavenger, says that other enemies may be relied upon to do that work. He suggests that to banish the mosquito the best plan is to drain meadows, bogs and swamps, to fill up stagnant pools and level rain-hollows contiguous to dwellings.

Certain artificial remedies are also relied upon. The use of coal oil in swamps, by odorizing the air and floating upon the surface of the water itself, is a very practical and energetic remedy. It destroys the mosquito in its early stages. The use of lanterns, so arranged as to attract and destroy the mosquitoes, is another remedy. The mosquitoes are attracted to them, and are destroyed in the cans of coal oil or kerosene or other similar mixtures which may be used. They should be placed around houses, hotels and in marshes. The expense and trouble of management are small, as they are only used during a few months of the year. Indeed, almost every method imaginable of catching and destroying the insect has been suggested except the very simple one of putting salt on its tail and clubbing it to death.

These scientific authorities are not above offering suggestions for the relief of persons whose situation makes them liable to suffer from the bites of these insect tormentors, and who can not wait for the propagation of the dragon fly. They recommend lemon juice, vinegar, oil of peppermint and oil of pennyroyal. A very strong infusion of roots of Tribulus repens is successfully used at Simsbury, and a weak solution of quassia wood boiled in water, has also been recommended.

Limits of Natural Vision.
The limits of vision vary with elevation, conditions of the atmosphere, intensity of illumination and other modifying elements in different cases. On a clear day an object one foot above a level plain may be seen at a distance of 1.81 miles; one ten feet high, 4.13 miles; one 30 feet high, 5.85 miles; one 100 feet high, 8.1 miles; one a mile high, as the top of a mountain, 95.23 miles. This allows 7 inches, or, to be exact, 6.99 inches, for the curvature of the earth, and assumes that the size and illumination of the object are sufficient to produce an image. Five miles may be taken as the extreme limit at which a man is visible on the flat plain to an observer on the same level.—St. Louis Republic.

A Windsor Locks (Conn.) little girl, just old enough to enter the infant class at the Sunday-school, was ambitious to repeat a text of Scripture as the older ones did at the concert exercises. To humor her ambition and make reasonably certain that she would succeed, the mother selected the brief text "It is lawful to do good on the Sabbath day," and taught her until she rehearsed it several times correctly. When the supreme moment arrived, however, the little orator identified her audience and mortified her mother with the proposition that "it is awful to do good on the Sabbath day."

Steady Progress

Has characterized Hood's Sarsaparilla ever since it was placed before the public. When ever introduced, its sales have grown from year to year, until now it is the most popular and most successful medicine offered. Any druggist will confirm this statement. The secret of this success lies in the fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla is a medicine of merit. It does actually accomplish all that is claimed for it, and when given a fair trial, is reasonably certain to be of benefit.

Positive Statements.
"Since Hood's Sarsaparilla has been in my hands for sale I have had frequent and unreserved testimonials in its favor. Although carrying this preparation for less than one year, my sales have been greater than of any similar preparation, and the testimonials in its favor are at once positive and personally noticeable." A. Watson, Hallsburg, Cal.

Sells On Its Merits.
"My boys say, 'Papa, why don't you buy more of Hood's Sarsaparilla at a time; we are always short.' It sells on its own merits." F. Beat, Portland, Oregon; the oldest druggist in Oregon.

A Ripe Old Age.

S. H. Holcomb and wife, of Belcher-ville, Texas, have celebrated their fifty-fifth wedding anniversary and are still hale and hearty. The secret of their long life and good health is that they correct any slight ailment promptly, and in that way avoid serious sickness. Like most every one else, they are more frequently troubled with constipation than any other physical disorder. To correct this they take St. Patrick's pills in preference of any other, because, as Mr. Holcomb says, "They are a mild pill and, besides, keep the whole system in good order. We prize them very highly." For sale by Shoemaker & Co., druggists.

Stimulate the Blood.

Brandreth's Pills are the great blood purifier. They are a purgative and blood tonic, they act equally on the bowels, the kidneys and the skin, thus cleansing the system by the natural outlet of the body—they may be called the purgative, purgative and diuretic medicine. They stimulate the blood so as to enable nature to throw off all morbid humors, and cures disease no matter by what name it may be called. One or two of them taken every night will prove an infallible remedy.

Brandreth's Pills are purely vegetable, absolutely harmless and safe to take at any time.

NEWLANDS' BOOK.

Suggestions as to a General Plan

For the Irrigation and Reclamation of the Arid Lands of Nevada.

LONG VALLEY, OR UPPER CARSON RESERVOIR.

Between the canyons of the East Carson and of the West Carson, just at the head of the main Carson valley, in Douglas county, there is a reservoir site known as Long valley, where conditions appear to be favorable for water storage, and this place has the advantage of being in Nevada. I do not point to this site to the exclusion of others, but merely as an illustration of what might be done, and because we have acquired data by recent surveys to present its features. Immediately below it lies the main valley of the Upper Carson, comprising about 47,500 acres, of which 25,000 acres on the west and south sides are now under cultivation, and the remaining 22,500 acres are capable of irrigation if water storage is provided. For many years the portion cultivated has produced excellent crops, showing that the soil is rich and the climate well adapted to grain, alfalfa, fruits and vegetables of every kind. This little irrigation district has made as many families comfortable as any other piece of land of similar size devoted to general farming in the United States, and the lands still to be improved by the means we are considering are even of finer quality, more level, of better soil composition and better natural drainage than that which has thus far been cultivated near the streams. They extend to within sight of the State Capitol, and are as desirable in location as they are rich in quality.

From personal inquiry and the reports of engineers, I am impressed with the belief that enough water could be stored in Long valley to guard against a shortage on lands already irrigated, but now desert, lands of this Upper Carson valley. At any rate, I feel satisfied that within a limit of cost not exceeding $200,000 for storage works, or nine dollars per acre for the 22,500 acres now lying dry and valueless, this end may be effected.

The key to the whole situation is the reservoir site covering 1,000 acres. Fearing that this might be held for speculative purposes, I have acquired almost all of the land constituting the site, with the exception of a few acres, as well as certain water rights connected with it. If the State owned these 22,500 acres (Irrigable Deserts Nos. 1 and 2, Carson river map), it could purchase from me, at actual cost, this reservoir site and the water rights, and conduct an irrigation enterprise which would be profitable and of immense benefit to the river and the State. A dam 100 feet high could be built at the site at a cost of less than $200,000. A ditch could be led from it over these irrigable deserts at comparatively little expense. The land could be divided up into forty-acre tracts. Water rights could be attached to each tract in the proportion that the number of acres in the tract bore to the whole. The lands could be sold to settlers for from $20 to $25 an acre. Thus a large profit could be made, a large amount of taxable property added to the State, and the permanent flow of the river below increased by sewage and drainage from the newly-cultivated area. The mills below Empire would have a sufficient supply of water. The existing litigation between the mills and the farmers above would be settled, and the land now under cultivation in Douglas county would be free from contention.

But unfortunately the State has parted with the title to these 22,500 acres of irrigable lands. They have been bought during the past few years from the State for $1.25 per acre, twenty-five cents per acre being paid in cash. They are held in large tracts, the principal owners being H. F. Danberg, R. P. M. Greeley, W. C. Noteworth, Herman Springmeyer and others.

The State would not be justified in going into this enterprise except upon the terms which would warrant private capital in entering upon it. A private company certainly would not spend the large sums of money necessary to store water and rely wholly upon its sale to irrigators as a return for the investment. I do not pause to give reasons for this conclusion, but I am sure it is one which the history of irrigation works everywhere, in our own country and abroad, amply justifies. If private enterprise would not undertake such a venture, can the State afford to make it? Experience at home and abroad has shown that whoever undertakes a work of irrigation, irrigation works everywhere, or of distribution, to avoid loss must have land to sell with the water and make the sales reduce the investment to a sum upon which the returns will earn interest, keep up the property and in time return first cost.

Unfortunately for Nevada, under our too generous laws very many acres of our best irrigable lands are controlled by applicants who have paid twenty-five cents an acre and hold these lands to reap the benefit resulting from the public-spirited action of others, or from a liberal policy of public works everywhere, or of distribution, to avoid loss must have land to sell with the water and make the sales reduce the investment to a sum upon which the returns will earn interest, keep up the property and in time return first cost.

MIDDLE CARSON RESERVOIR.

In the lower end of the Upper Carson valley, commanded by a dam site in the canyon below McTarnahan's bridge, is a water-storage site which I have called the Middle Carson reservoir. Within this space, at an expenditure of about $50,000 in the construction of a dam, enough water can be stored to cover 20,000 acres a foot deep. This is sufficient to serve all that fine body of land lying north and east of Dayton, and on both sides of the river as far as Fort Churchill, being Irrigable Deserts Nos. 3 and 4, containing in all 15,400 acres. This same water would, in its passage down the river, provide power to operate the mills which are almost annually embarrassed and forced to shut down because water is taken away from them to irrigate the valleys above.

Further down the river, below Fort Churchill, on the north side of the river, is a fine bench of level sugar-bush land comprising 15,000 acres (Irrigable Desert No. 5), where the waters that would find their way back into the river from the irrigated lands above could be used to great advantage. This is an exceptionally fine body of land, of peculiarly rich and tillable soil, and with a warm exposure. With the view of advancing the public interests, either by private enterprise or the promotion of public action, I have secured upon this bench a large tract of land which I will hold for a comprehensive irrigation enterprise.

This middle Carson reservoir would be an excellent enterprise if the owners of the land which constitutes its site did not demand so high a price for it. I have acquired a portion of the land required for it, but the rest is in private ownership and is held at prices almost prohibitory of the enterprise, unless it is undertaken by the State and the power of eminent domain is exercised.

Russian Egg Market.

The exportation of eggs from Russia is rapidly developing into an important branch of commerce. While in 1888 eggs to the value of 1,026 rubles were exported, in 1889 the exportation amounted to 15,769,000 rubles, and this year the business is still greater. The central point of this commerce is Warsaw.

England's Small Wars.

Since 1857 England's small wars have cost her about $110,000,000. The war with China in 1857-62 cost her $30,000,000; the Abyssinian Expedition in 1867-70, $41,500,000; the South African War in 1879-80, $14,000,000; the Indian Expedition in 1884-85, $6,250,000; the Afghan War, between 1880 and 1886, $15,000,000.

Decreased Mortality.

The mortality in Austria in 1889 was much less than in any one of the ten previous years. The total number of cases of death was 646,787, being 39,786 fewer than in 1888, and 27,250 less than in 1889. On the other hand, the births number 898,350, or 8,449 more than in 1888.

Human Frailty.

We are frail creatures physically—the most robust among us. The unhealthy man or woman in great measure is incapable of benefit to society. If for instance, biliousness, a trouble of frequency and often obstinately resistant of ordinary medicine, obstructs the harmonious action of the liver and the bowels, the sufferer is sure to be dissatisfied. The three disorders conditionally are sure to be confirmed by neglect. Under the erroneous impression that this is no harm for him, an impression in all likelihood confirmed by the use of objectionable remedies, the sufferer is apt to become negligent, nay, even reckless, and the sooner he is removed from the sphere of human endeavor the better for all parties concerned. What a series of mistakes! His liver is responsible. It is an incorporeal part of himself. How dispiriting! By the aid of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a certain medium for the re-establishment of united regular action in the stomach, liver and bowels, he can prevent malarial, rheumatic and kidney troubles.

A BUSINESS PROPOSITION.

A City Lady Who Required Proof Before Believing.

There recently appeared in the San Francisco Call, Chronicle, and Examiner, a proposition hitherto unheard of. It was an advertisement in which the Edwin W. Joy Company, in proof of the curative properties of Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla, offered to submit it to the terrific test of "no cure no pay." Many accepted, and their experiences are so convincing as to be almost beyond belief. Here is another, written under date January 6, 1890:—

DEAR SIR: I accepted your offer to test the merits of your vegetable remedy in which I had been troubled for a long time, and had tried nearly everything, with little or no effect; but Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla acted almost like magic, and the first bottle relieved me from one of the worst cases of sick headache one ever had.

16 Prospect Place, San Francisco.

We will from time to time publish others of these letters. It is doubtful if any remedy was ever before submitted to such a severe ordeal.

A Cure for Sick Headache.

This distressing complaint is due to an inactive or sluggish liver with constipated bowels which derange the stomach and disturb the nervous system, causes dizziness and an oppressive dull pain in the head, often so severe as to prevent all rest or sleep. One of Dr. Gunn's Improved Liver Pills will relieve you of all the pain and misery and a few more doses will correct the liver and stomach and regulate the bowels. While these pills are small, easily taken, and mild and gentle in their action there is no medicine made that will so quickly and effectively cure a sick headache. Sold by S. J. Hodgkinson.

For rheumatic and neuralgic pains, rub Dr. H. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment, and take Dr. J. H. McLean's Sarsaparilla. You will not suffer long, but will be gratified with a speedy and effective cure.

Our customers all speak highly in praise of St. Patrick's pills. They are the best. BERRY BROS., Carroll Nebraska. For sale by Shoemaker & Co., druggists.
